Slovakia Given in To German Defense Toward Ukraine

Hitler Marches in With Armed Forces; Czech Republic Gone

Berlin, Mar. 16.—(AP)—Slovakia threw herself under protection of the wsaativa toda, joining Bohemia and Moravia in the expanding empire of Adolf Hitler.

The heavily guarded Ger-

d the United Nations Security Council, after having adopted a resolution on the protective status of Czechoslovakia, announced that the country would be protected by the German armed forces. This resolution was adopted by a vote of 14 to 0, with the United States, Britain, France, and the Soviet Union abstaining.

The move by the United Nations was in response to the invasion of Czechoslovakia by German troops last week, which marked the beginning of the Second World War.

The resolution stated that the United Nations would continue to protect Czechoslovakia until such time as a peace agreement could be reached with the German forces. It also called for the immediate withdrawal of German troops from Czechoslovakia.

The resolution was met with widespread condemnation by the international community. The United States, Britain, and France called for immediate military action to stop the invasion, while the Soviet Union announced that it would not interfere in the conflict.

The United Nations resolution was met with mixed reactions. Some countries, such as the United States, saw it as a necessary step to prevent further aggression, while others, such as the Soviet Union, saw it as a violation of national sovereignty.

We一年一度 Track Record In High Hurdles

Breaking the ties in 9.5 seconds to equal the record he hung up last year in the Tyndall Hurdles, Wendon completed the seven hurdles at record pace tonight, being permitted to remain in the race because of an error on the part of a competitor. Wendon, looking every bit the favorite through the first six hurdles, coasted to his easy victory by lengths, running the 110-yard distance in 16.7 seconds.

The Cornellian

Another Year

Cornell's most successful intramural basketball season opened tonight with the victory of the Tigers, independent champions, over the Sigma Nu quintet in an interfraternity title-holder, in the University championships match. A record participation of 81 teams featured the 1938-39 season. Fifty-six of these teams represented almost every house on the Cornell campus, competed in eight interfraternity leagues, with 17 independent teams in two leagues, and eight interdepartmental teams in one league. Last year there were only 58 fraternities represented with 10 independent and eight interdepartmental teams.

Although some teams believed in the "iron-man" principle of having only five men for the whole season schedule, the roster of players for the average team shows seven or eight players. This means that about 400 or 700 players participated in the extensive program; in other words, over 15 percent of the male students enrolled in Cornell took part in the basketball program.

The intramural season started December 1 and 225 games will be played since the first whistle sounded. All games were played on the Drift Hall floor courts.

Cornell's Track Forces Favored to Win Over Green Tomorrow in Indoor Finals

Dartmouth's fast-stopping track forces, riding high after a first division post in Goethals' 19th annual indoor ICAA, entered in the meet 17 days ago, will encounter a strong obstacle in the Drift Hall tomorrow evening. A favored Big Red squad is expected to set the Hanover outfit speed throughout. Results in this event are therefore a toss-up.

Sky-climber Bailey of Dartmouth is the only other Greenman given an edge in his specialty and is favored to leap to an easy win in the pole vault. Per the Big Red, Woodson is expected to test Bailey. A toss-up will be a battle between Spray and Moore, both members of the 1939 Cornell track in the high jump.

Blount and Woodson, the Green's outstanding pair, are top heavy choices to score a brace of wins. Blount, the broad and high jumper, is the one who is looking to extend himself in the mile relay only, while the individualists, Woodson, may find him unable to run top speed.

CE Freshman Appointed To US Naval Academy

Paul W. Leighty, a freshman in the School of Civil Engineering, has received an appointment from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

At Cornell he has taken part in two productions of the Dramatic Club, is a worker in the Radio Guild, and as a private in the ROTC, played the hero in the famous "extra-milage" test of May 1943.

If he passes further examinations, he will enter the Naval Academy on July 1.

It Happens to Be a Sensation! THE EVERNESS COLLAR
That OUTWEARS The Shirt

How many perfectly good shirts have you discarded because the collar frayed and wore out prematurely? This economic waste is abruptly halted with the advent of the new Everness Collar, exclusive on Essexly Tailored Collar Shirts. The new Everness Collar is made of a specially fabricated cloth that not only outwears the shirt.... but is twin to the shirt in color and pattern, and so far as we know this feature is an Essexly "scoop." And in addition, the Everness Collar is Trenchard—which means that its fresh, clean charm is preserved in untrammeled neatness from morning until night.

Although other colleges have adopted plans for similar conferences, Cornell is believed to be the only college with furnishing staffs of alumnae speakers. It is felt that a greater mutual interest between the speaker and the women students is created thereby.

The increasing interest in conferences of this type is attested to by the fact that in each of the succeeding four conferences the number of alumnae present has increased. Last year approximately 500 women attended the conferences.

At this conference women's placements and the fields of social service, home sciences, education, and business will be discussed. This selection was made on the basis of the number of alumnae who last fall in which Cornell women chose these fields as the most interesting.

The value of these conferences can not be doubted. In times when the selection of a career is a complex one a little practical advice from qualified speakers can not be amiss.

Nazi Education

American university students might well chalk up another point in favor of democracy. In the future, according to an announcement from Germany, entrance to higher education institutions will be possible only through selection by the Nazi government acting through its student organizations.

Because of this law, the German student must be recommended by a student organization before he can gain entrance to a university. Naturally only students in sympathy with Nazi party will be selected and those with independent thoughts or of non-Aryan descent will not be given the privilege of attending institutions of higher learning.

The announcement serves to point out vividly the fact that the German system of education, since it is under the absolute control of a party, places many serious defects. Under the present regime, students holding their interest in research and study above their interest in the Nazi party risk a complete disfavor. Also, German universities will not turn out as great a quantity of students as under normal conditions because only students with "correct" political beliefs will be allowed to attend schools of higher education. The type of knowledge the students get in such schools will be that which the Nazis will approve. Formerly many able and distinguished professors have left the country because of Nazism, being replaced by less brilliant types.

Announcements like this should make American university students thankful that they live in a democratic country where all students can obtain higher education. The introduction of the system in Germany is unfortunate, but at the same time it has served to underline the advantage of our system.

Right now the war referendum bill is languishing in committee in Congress, and with the President actively opposing it, there is little if any hope for its immediate passage. The terms of this bill are simple. Before the United States could engage in war with any foreign power outside of the confines of this country, such a war would have to be approved by a referendum of all legal voters. The bill does not apply to any actual war in progress.

This bill would guarantee American neutrality in case of European war at least until a majority of citizens express themselves in favor of intervention. The opponents of the bill claim that it would impede preparations for war, and would therefore leave the United States unready to fight should intervention become necessary at any time. This is true, but the object of the bill is to prevent just such over-enthusiastic preparations which would tend to drag us into war.

Although this latest war scare may end with no more catastrophic results for us than its predecessor, we can consider at Cornell and elsewhere the annual conference on Fields of Work for Women, beginning to-morrow.

Women's Conferences

Cornell women should not fail to take advantage of one of the few opportunities for vocational conferences before they are bidden a fond farewell at Cornell. This is the annual conference on Fields of Work for Women, beginning to-morrow.

Forum Speakers to Include Women
In Social Work, Home, Business World

Dr. Anna Biddle '18, a clinical psychologist from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Mrs. C. E. Duncan, (Miss Ann Phillips '18); and Mrs. Laura Ellsworth Sells '12, of the Federal Advertising Agency in New York City, will be three of the five Cornell alumni to speak at the Fifth Annual Conference on Fields of Work for Women, in the Memorial Room of the Old Hall, beginning at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Dr. Biddle will talk on "Women in Psychology and Social Service." She will discuss the work of the consultants, psychologists, and the value of the science of psychology in the field of social service. According to her, there is an increased need for persons trained scientifically to deal with problems on better human relationships.

Dr. Biddle is at present the school psychologist for the South Philadelphia High School for Girls. She is also a member of the American Psychological Association for the Advancement of Science, of the American Psychological Association, and of the Pennsylvania Association of Consulting Psychologists.

Mrs. Duncan, who is connected with the Extension Service of the Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics at Cornell, will speak on "Women in Home Economics." As she says, "Our cooperative contacts with women's organizations and community activities of all sorts gives us an unusual opportunity to work with leaders and those people particularly interested in improving themselves and their communities," so her contacts should enable her to speak with experience on her topic.

Business Women to Speak

Mrs. Sells, who will speak on "Women in Business," has been handling accounts, in which the merchandising is mainly of interest to women, with the Federal Advertising Agency for many years. She is also a member of the Fashion Group.

This will be the first opportunity in a long time that she has had to see her alma mater, so she claims that she will be doubly happy in coming to the conference. She is interested in helping students by her talk on the world of business, though she admits that to cover it all in the time allotted her talk is, "a little like trying to write 'Gone With the Wind' on a calling card."

The conference will be sponsored by the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs in cooperation with Miss P. Louise Ryde, dean of women, W.S.G.A., and Miss Willard Strand, Straight Hall. It will be followed by a tea in honor of the speakers for students in the Straight Lounges at 4 o'clock.

Students who have not yet obtained tickets for admission to the forum, may register for them at the regular weekly tea for women in the Straight Lounges from 4 to 6 o'clock this afternoon.

Those desiring personal interviews with any of the speakers are to make appointments for them with the student chairman for each group following the group discussions after the forum. The interviews will be held from 7:15 to 9:15 o'clock Saturday evening.

Dr. Eliot to Discuss Nursery Teaching

Dr. Abigail Eliot, director of the Nursery Training School in Boston, will talk on "Nursery School Teaching and Opportunities in Related Fields," in Martha Van Rensselaer Hall, Auditorium, at 30 "o'clock tomorrow morning.

This talk is one in the series on vocations sponsored by the Home Economics Club.

This talk of especial interest to students in sociology, psychology, education, family life, and nursery school is open to students of all colleges.

Dr. Eliot received her A. B. from Radcliffe College and her degree in education from Harvard University. She also studied at the Radcliffe MacMillan Nursery and training center in London, the center from which much of the Nursery School Movement has developed.

The Cruises Street Nursery School in Boston opened under her direction in 1922, and is considered to be one of the first nursery schools in this country. It was in connection with the training course that the first course on the pre-school child to be offered at Harvard was started.

Nearly fifty nursery schools have grown from Dr. Eliot's first school at Ruggles Street. Some of these are connected with social welfare centers, some with private schools and colleges, and some with public schools.

Women who fail to do this will not be able to take canoeing for the spring term which begins immediately after the spring recess. In this case, they should register for another activity before April 1st.

Winners Picked In Tennis Trials
The first round of the varsity tennis trials which were held this week in the Drill Hall was con cluded last evening with a win by Fred Boone, Devine, Gifted, Fertitta, King, North, Stewardson, and Smith. He was the leading team man from which will be picked the seven to represent the Big Red on the spring trip. Final matches to decide who will play number one position will be held next week.

The outstanding match of the evening was between Bob Booche ver and Simon. Simon led the best set, 6-3, but on match point in the next game, missed Booche ver's serve and sent it into the net. This seemed to be all that Booche ver needed for he took the set, 6-3, and the next one, 6-3, to win the match.

Coach Dick Lewis feels that the team will be a strong one, but the lack of Lou Boochever, Vince Kich ler, and Jack Hidlay seriously cripples the team for the spring trip.

Cross-Country Race Announced by AA
The Cornell Athletics Association has announced a new cross country race which will be run for the first time next fall among the Ivy League schools. The race carries with it a trophy offered by Eugene K. and Richard D. Auerbach in memory of their father, Junius T. Auerbach, '90, a cross country man in his day.

The cup will be retained by any team winning it three times, and a new trophy will be presented when the cup is permanently won. Junius Auerbach himself placed a trophy in competition for the win ner of a 10 mile race from Dryden to the Old Army, in a feature of the autumn season beginning in 1914.

A former lawyer in Boston, Auer bach was a loyal follower of Cor nell athletics until his death in 1917. He was the founder of the Cornell Club of New England.
